"Between two groups of men that want to make inconsistent kinds of worlds I see no remedy except force...
Society rests upon the death of men."

- Oliver Wendell Holmes

AUTHOR'S NOTE

This story is not true - the events depicted did not happen. The men, materials and organizations shown, however, do exist and could possibly be used in a similar operation. No such operation has ever been planned or for my knowledge even discussed. This story is entirely a work of - conjecture.